FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

May 6, 2009 – SPOKANE, WASHINGTON -- Lawton Printing is proud to announce another step in its sustainable business practices, achieving certification from the Forest Stewardship Council (FSC). Ensuring environmentally responsible forest management practices worldwide aids in sustaining the earth's forest resources for future generations.

“We are thrilled to add the FSC Certification to our ongoing efforts to be earth friendly” says Laura Lawton-Forsyth, President. “Lawton Printing has pursued a path of environmental stewardship since the 1970’s. This certification reinforces our dedication to sustainable practices and allows our clients a green solution with the opportunity to publicize their commitment through print.”

Fulfilling the requirements to attain this status enables Lawton Printing’s customers to print onto FSC certified papers and utilize the FSC logo as well as the Rainforest Alliance logo on their printed materials. Staff is in place to assist the marketing and design community on how to best implement the logo(s) into collateral and promotional pieces.

ABOUT LAWTON PRINTING:

Lawton Printing has been a substantial partner of the Spokane business community since 1940. Still independently owned, the company is under fourth generation leadership, producing graphic communication products and printed materials for businesses near and far. The company is pursuing a course of growth that focuses on meeting customer needs and long term sustainability for the employees, the community and the world.
